Your feedback matters

Feedback at this stage has the potential to change and influence the design and improve the overall quality of the planning application from a community perspective.

In addition to confirming any current support, opposition, or neutrality to the proposal at this stage, please consider submitting any constructive feedback that you may have regarding the design and delivery of the project. This information has the potential to change and influence the design in a way that is beneficial to the community, should it go ahead.

Keeping you updated

We will hold a second public exhibition event closer to the submission of the planning application (which is currently scheduled for early 2027) to update people on the proposal and present the final design.

These events will also refer to the written feedback received from this exhibition and consultation period and explain any changes made to the design in response to the feedback.

Planning Submission Timescales

The Carn na Saobhaidh Wind Farm proposal will have an installed generating capacity greater than 50 MW (megawatts). This means that the application for planning consent will be submitted by RES to the Scottish Government's Energy Consents Unit under Section 36 of the Electricity Act 1989 (the Electricity Act) and determined by Scottish Ministers. We currently expect to submit the Section 36 application in mid-2027.

Please note that comments to RES at this time are not representations to the determining authority (The Scottish Government's Energy Consents Unit). There will be an opportunity to submit representations to the determining authority should an application be submitted.
